STATES WIN
IN R. R. CASES

Supreme Court Upholds Their Power to Make Rate Regulations.

THE MINNESOTA CASE RULES

Principles Laid Down in That Followed in the Latest Decisions.

Washington, June 16.—Without varying a dot from the principles laid down last week in the Minnesota rate cases, the supreme court of the United States today upheld state railroad rate legislation in Missouri, Arkansas, Oregon and West Virginia, which included 2-cent passenger laws in Missouri, Arkansas and West Virginia, maximum freight rate laws in Missouri and Arkansas, and freight rates out of Portland in the Oregon cases. The only exception to the sweeping approval of state statutes was in the case of several weaker roads in Missouri.

The Kentucky case was not decided. It involves an attack upon the state rates from river points to inland distillery cities, and involves an attack on the constitutionality of the form of the McCord act enabling the state railroad commission to fix reasonable rates on intrastate business. A decision in this case may be forthcoming when the court meets again in October.

Justice Hughes announced the decision in the rate cases today as he did in the Minnesota cases a week ago. Wherever the point was raised that the state laws interfered with interstate commerce, the justice referred to his Minnesota rate decision. He disappointed any who believed that the court might in some way modify that decision.

HOT WEATHER.

Just What Farmers Needed For Wheat Harvest.

Ten days of torrid weather in June is what we are accustomed to and what the farmers needed during wheat harvest. The hum of the reaper has been heard all over the county for a week or more and by Saturday the work will about be over. From what we can gather the crop will not be over an average, but it is of good quality. Very soon the threshers will be at work and the deliveries will begin. Thus far no price has been fixed.

A drought in June is discouraging, but let the farmers remember that somehow the rains generally come "at the right time." The weather has been hot—everybody knows that—but the mercury has not gone higher during the spell than 89 degrees. That was last Tuesday. Monday it reached the 87 mark, and the three last days of the week preceding it registered 73, 77 and 80 degrees.

This has been, probably, the hottest June ever known here. There is some complaint among the farmers about want of rain for the tobacco and corn crops, but they should not forget that after wheat is harvested we generally have heavy rains, and why not this year?

HOME BURNED
AT MIDNIGHT

Family Escaped From Burning Building in Night Clothes.

ORIGIN OF FIRE UNKNOWN.

Building Was Nearly Gone When Fire Department Was Called.

The home of W. L. Craig, in the Southern part of the city, just back of the American Snuff Co., was burned to the ground, with all the contents, last Tuesday night after 12 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig and a little son were sound asleep but Mrs. Craig was awakened by the smoke and called her husband. They soon realized their great danger and rushed out of the room to find that the room in which they were sleeping was the only part of the house not on fire.

Though they had a telephone in the house they could not use it as they could not get to it. In their night clothes they ran to the home of Harvey Underwood, on 22nd street, and called for a connection with the fire department. There was trouble in getting connection, which delayed their starting out at least ten minutes. When they located the fire they made a hasty run but the building was about gone when they reached it. Besides they had to carry the hose about 500 feet before they could turn the stream on the fire.

The building and everything in it was burned excepting two rocking chairs and a drugget. The house was built by G. E. Broadus, now in California, and was sold to the American Co. about four days ago. The house cannot be duplicated for less than $1,000. It was insured.

Mr. Craig's loss was pretty well covered by insurance.

BUFFALO BILL

Is Coming To Kentucky With His Wild West Show.

Buffalo Bill is to show in Louisville the 21st of this month and it is pretty safe to say that he will take in Hopkinsville in his circuit. After this week, the Chautauqua being a thing of the past, times will be rather dull during dog days without a show—the genuine thing. It must be the genuine article, though, or the people won't go to see it. They have had enough of the cheap John kind already.

Merger at Last Merges.

Louisville, Ky., June 16.—The last preliminary steps to the merging of the gas, electric light and power companies of Louisville was taken today when H. M. Bylesby & Company, of Chicago, paid to the city $25,000 which that company bid for a franchise to sell natural gas here. The merger will result in an $18,000,000 corporation, as a holding company for the four concerns which heretofore have competed for local business. A pipe line from West Virginia natural gas fields is provided for by next spring as well as municipal regulations of rates to be charged consumers.

ANOTHER BIG
CLEAN-UP DAY

Let's Take Our Cue From a Neighbor's Loss of Fifty.

50 CASES OF TUBERCULOSIS

Not Immune From Disease, But Can Keep it Away.

Hopkinsville is enjoying a high reputation as a clean town and a healthy place to live. The cause of its healthfulness must be attributed to cleanliness. "Clean-up Day," as announced by the Civic League and endorsed by the Mayor was generally observed and produced results.

But one season for cleaning up is not enough to keep away disease for a year. Now that summer is here and the mercury in the tube is soaring up toward the century mark, does not discretion call for another week's work?

We love to think about how healthy the city is, but we must keep it so. The foul odors we sniff in passing different places and the offensive smells of sewers are suggestive of the necessity for another cleaning up—and that right soon.

We do not want such a record as that shown by the Health Officer, published in the Henderson Gleaner of this week. The officer says that the fiscal year, ending May 31, there were 238 deaths, tuberculosis claiming 50 of the number. There were 30 deaths from typhoid fever. Plain talk full of warning.

True it is that Henderson is a river town, but don't let us forget that all causes for disease do not come from a river. Danger too often lies in a feeling of safety.

Locates in Mayfield.

Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Erskiletian, who recently bought a home on West Broadway from Dr. Rozzell, are now in the city and have decided to postpone their trip to Europe and locate permanently at once in this city.

Dr. Erskiletian comes from Christian county, where he has been actively engaged in the general practice of medicine for more than ten years. He is a member of five medical associations, and has held office in two of them. He will occupy the office recently vacated by Dr. Rozzell, on west side of public square, and will be located in this office on and after next Monday, ready to begin the practice of his profession as a physician and surgeon. He and his wife no doubt will be given a cordial welcome, we trust that they will be pleased with the generous hospitality of the people of Mayfield, and that his sojourn here may bring to him a successful practice and a happy location.—Mayfield Messenger.

Pathetic Case.

Covington, Ky., June 17.—Unconscious of impending death, which physicians declare will occur some day this week, little Hilda Wingate, aged five years, plays with other children at the Covington General Hospital, where she is a patient as the result of accidentally swallowing a bichloride of mercury tablet.

The little victim was given the tablet by a playmate last Saturday, who said it was "candy." Physicians at the hospital late yesterday announced that the child cannot survive longer than six days. The slow-working poison has permeated her system and hourly examinations are being made to determine to just what extent it has eaten its insidious way.

DEPICTS A PERFECT WOMAN

Doubtful, However, if Many Measure
Up to Proportions Prescribed by Writer.

A perfectly proportioned woman should average 5 feet 5 inches to 5 feet 7 inches in height, and she should weigh from 125 to 140 pounds, according to height. A plumb line dropped from a point marked by the tip of her nose should meet at a point one inch in front of her great toe. Her shoulders and hips should strike a straight line drawn up and down. Her waist should taper gradually to a size on a line drawn from the outer third of the collarbones to the hips. Her bust should measure from 28 to 36 inches, her hips from 6 to 10 inches more than this, and her waist from 24 inches to 28 inches. Her neck and thigh should be of about the same circumference. The upper arm and calf of the leg should measure the same. The length of her legs should be half as long as her height.
She should measure from her waist to her feet about a foot more than from her waist to the crown of her head. Around the neck she should measure from 12 to 14 inches. Her head should be erect and on a line with the central plane of her body, and her feet should be of a size and shape to conform with her hands—that is the shoe will be a trifle larger than one-half the size of the glove she wears. Thus, if a girl wears a 6 glove she should wear a 3½ or 4 size shoe.—Exchange.

HAD RIGHT TO BE JUBILANT

Walter's Little Lapse From Duty Really Excusable When He Stated
the Reason.

Stuart C. Leake, the railroad man, dropped into a cafe in Philadelphia one day for lunch, and signified by voice and gesture that he was in a terrific hurry to be served. A waiter named Reno, whom Leake knew, paid no attention to the guest, but consumed at least five minutes dancing in a demented manner around a stock ticker in the corner.

"Why on earth didn't you come here to this table when I called you?" asked Leake.

"I was detained by a little private business," said the waiter mysteriously.

"But I insist on knowing," Leake came back at him. "I don't see how a waiter can hold his job and behave the way you do. If you don't step sharp now, you'll get no tip."

This seemed to bring the waiter to his senses.

"Well, Mr. Leake," he said, with great humility, "I was celebrating a little. I just saw by the stock ticker that I had made a thousand dollars on the short side of the market.
What'll you have, sir?"—Popular

ECONOMY IN POTATO OMELET

Appetizing Dish the Exclusive Recipe of a Clever Little French Cook—Ragout of Veal.

The economy of the potato omelet is one of the devices for money-saving housekeeping shown in "A Little French Cook; Her Methods and Recipes," published in Harper's Bazar.
For days when company must be especially regarded, she made a potato omelet, which reconciled you to the conditions. She mashed ten small cold potatoes. She then fried brown in butter two shopped ciboules (which are shallots, but any small, delicate onion would do), with a piece of chopped parsley, and added the potatoes. She then beat together well four eggs, and added them lightly to the potatoes. Of this mixture she made an omelet in the usual way; and when done put it on a dish and set it in the oven a few minutes to rise.

There is no more economical dish for a well-fed family than a good ragout. Cecile's ragout of veal—navarrain, as she called it—was as savory and nourishing a dish as anyone could desire. She used about two pounds of the shoulder of veal, which she cooked for 20 minutes or so in a small iron pot, with salt, pepper and butter, until it was well browned. She turned it over from time to time. Once she added a small wineglass of water, to prevent burning. (She was very chary of spoiling good things by water dilution, and in the iron pot there was little danger of burning.) She then sprinkled it over the meat and turned the meat over and over; then she added eight large carrots cut into small dice, four onions, sliced, several pieces of parsley, about two cupfuls of raw peas, and a glassful of water. She cooked it, tightly covered, an hour and a half, adding, a half-hour before it was done, a plateful of small raw potatoes, cut in half.

The Housekeeper

When making mince meat use a few crabapples with other apples and you will add a delicious flavor to the meat.
When boiling molasses or sugar candy rub the dish in which it is being boiled with butter all around about an inch from the top and it will not boil over.

To keep vegetables fresh and crisp dip a muslin bag or cloth flour sack (after it is cleaned) in cold water, wring it lightly, put in the vegetables and hang where the air can strike it.

A flatiron stand will be found useful on the range to keep the contents of a saucepan warm without danger of burning; it is also useful when one desires food to simmer; there is then no fear of sticking or burning on a hot stove.

To clean steel ornaments of rust and discoloration, rub them with a brush dipped in paraffin oil and then in emery powder. Polish them with a dry chamois. A lump of camphor placed in the box with them will keep steel ornaments bright.

Glove fingers make good protection for the stems of flowers, especially if the flowers are fresh and worn pinned to a white dress. Save the fingers, insert the flower stems in them and pin to dress and no dampness or stain will injure the most delicate dress.

Mint Jelly.

Two bunches of mint, simmered in one pint of water for one-half hour; one cup sugar, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin, softened in one-half cup of water; juice of two lemons.

When the gelatin has softened, pour the water from the cooked mint over the softened gelatin, then add the sugar and lemon juice. A delicate green color may be obtained by the use of a little vegetable color paste.

Strain and chill; cut in squares and serve with lamb in the place of mint sauc. It may be used as a garnish for the lamb.

Boiled Apples.

Take as many apples as you wish to cook, all of one size—say medium—pare and put on to boil as you would potatoes, except put a cup of sugar and grain of salt to two quarts of water. Have water boiling when apples are dropped in. Don't core apples; don't let them get broken. Use knitting needle to test them. Put into a glass dish, previously warmed, so as not to crack. If too much water remains to fill the glass dish let it boil down, then strain over the apples and when cold they are delicious.

Peas on Toast.

Delicious and new to many tables will be the peas served on toast. Pour a can of sweet peas into a saucepan to cook until tender. Into this stir a half cupful of butter rubbed into a cream, with a tablespoonful of flour and a little salt. Add a half cupful of hot water. Pour the peas and gravy over six light brown slices of toast arranged on a large platter.

To Iron Shirtwaists.

Put a soft, thick cloth on a table at one corner. Lay the shirtwaist on the table with one armhole over the corner; pull the waist tight and iron it. In this way the shoulder is ironed smooth and kept in shape. It is especially good for pleated waists.

Pot Roast.

Take two pounds of beef. Sear on all sides with hot fat. Put in kettle and cover with boiling water. Add one-half small onion, one cup diced carrots, two tablespoonfuls vinegar and four cloves. Simmer four hours.

REAL "SWEET P"

"Great Caesar's spook!" Like the traditional hero of old romance, George suddenly rose to his full height, thereby upsetting a tabouret laden with smoking things which stood beside his Morris chair. His sister, on the other side of the table, looked up from her book with a deplorable lack of sympathy. It is not raining rain tonight, it's raining cigarettes. she cried lightly.

"Might help a fellow pick 'em up, instead of geying him!" he suggested, striking a neat balance between resentment and cajolery, as he dived under the table for his scattered possessions. She complied good-naturedly, and chased a fugitive pipe from under her own chair. "Mind the tobacco jar on the rug," she cautioned. "Is it cracked? No? That's good. There, I guess we've got everything. And now tell me, Georgie, why the dramatic start? Is anything troubling you?"

"Skirts," said George laconically, sitting down again with a tentative air. Alice looked alarmed.

"Not a love affair, dear?" she exclaimed. "Oh, George, you haven't been falling in—"

He waved his pipe with a pacifying gesture. "Calm yourself, little one; not so bad as that. It's this way: Remember those two Bancroft girls from Chicago we met at Cousin Beth's dance last night? Chums of hers, you know, and she made me promise beforehand I'd try to help 'em have a good time."

"Laurette and Peggy? Yes, I know. Surely you've nothing to regret in that quarter! You devoted yourself to them like a perfect dear, strictly impartial, even in dancing, which isn't Peggy's strongest point."

"She is a bit solid, isn't she? But then, Laurette's sylphlike enough to make up. And pretty—say, ain't she just a daisy? No, that's too commonplace; orchid's more like it, I guess—a pink-and-white orchid!" He paused, gratified at his unusual flight of fancy. Alice replied amiably, though without especial enthusiasm:

"She is pretty—and, yes, her delicate coloring does make her look flowerlike, though she's really about as plump as Peggy. And she does dance beautifully. Peggy has lovely eyes, though—did you notice them?"

"Why, yes in a way, though not specially. Brown, aren't they, and sort of soft and kind, and yet twinkly? Well, to get back to the story of muh life. Some one was praising up the good old customs at supper, and one of the girls proposed philopenas, so the whole crowd ate 'em, and both the Misses Bancroft caught yours truly. It just popped into my mind that I didn't attend to the matter today. Neither of 'em would choose anything; they just laughed and said they'd leave it to my judgment. And me a simple, unsophisticated architect!" He pulled gloomily at his pipe.

"Oh, well," Alice consoled him, "it's simple enough; flowers or candy—the usual thing, you know. Don't have to waste much psychology on that, buddie!"

He cheered up. "You're right, sis, as usual. Come right down to brass tacks, it's candy and flowers, of course, and it only remains to pick out the right kind for the right lady. Flowers for Laurette, of course; you couldn't think of anything else in connection with her. Just the daintiest, most—er—ethereal flowers in the shop. Wish I had an orchid income, but I guess we'll have to let it go at a peck or so of sweet peas. Say, I'd like to know that girl better; talk about your uplift, sis—I bet having a dainty little angel like that around would make a difference in a fellow's life! 'Course I like a girl to have brains and fun, too, as well as goodness; but she's got the whole outfit, I guess—" He roused himself with a little sigh from the mental contemplation of Laurette's delicate loveliness. Alice said nothing, but waited with a somewhat repressed air for him to finish.

"And five pounds of candy for Peggy; that's easy, too. Not candied violets and that sort of fluffy ruffles, but nice, rich chocolates, with nut fixings and goo in 'em, you know. That'll make a hit, I know—oh, I've noticed the things these plump, comfy, commonplace girls like!" He wagged his head sagaciously at Alice, who just then discovered that her shoelace needed retying. He rose and looked at his watch. "Plenty of time yet; I'm so glad I thought of it right after dinner. Now I'll chase right out and take 'em round. Good night, if I don't see you when I come in."

"I'll be up yet, I guess," she responded. "I must finish this book tonight." She added as he closed the door, "And I wouldn't miss his report for anything!"

It was a little past eleven when George returned, but she was waiting with hot cocon, and sisterly interest, as always.

"Well," she queried at the proper moment, "were the girls pleased?"

"Yes—no—I don't know. Little sister, did it ever occur to you that it is a strange world?"

"Occasionally."

"And that you can't always tell?"

"Bernard Shaw says you never can!"

"I get him there. Well, when I asked for the girls, Aunt Mary said Laurette was in the library, and that Peggy and Beth would be down in a moment, which just suited me. I marched in with my little bundles, and there was the fair Laurette, more like a flower than ever, in fluffy white stuff and pink ribbons. She gave a little girly squeal of delight, and said: 'Philopenas, I do believe! Which is mine? I can't wait!' I put 'em on the table and said:

"Guess, just for fun, for I thought I knew what she'd go for. But bless you, she had the paper and the lid off that candy box in a jiffy, and her mouth full, too! 'How did you know so well?' says she, smiling all over; 'just my favorites, and such a lot!' Of course, I was glad to make a hit, though I was surprised, and a bit sorry for good little Peggy."

"Pretty soon Peggy and Beth came in, and I presented the sweet peas with the best grace I could, knowing, of course, she'd act pleased, if only to be polite; but I wasn't prepared—say, did you ever notice Peggy Bancroft's face when she's happy? Why, it lighted up like—I noticed her eyes this time, all right, sis! There's something about 'em," he mused, smiling a tender little smile, roused by Alice's discreet demands for more.

"Oh, she didn't say much, but somehow she let me know I'd chosen just the right thing; and it wasn't put on, either, for if ever a girl had truth and all that in her face—" He pulled up embarrassed. "Candy? Yes, she took a bit now and then, but most of the time we talked, and she has the wittiest, jolliest way of putting things; knows a heap, and knows how to rub it in. Laurette?" A shade of distaste crossed George's face. "She just sat there and ate candy! Honest, sis, I didn't like to watch the way she was stowing the cargo. Just saying yes or no once in a while, with her mouth full! Pretty soon I stopped thinking of sweet peas in that quarter, and she began to remind me of a nice little pink and white—no, I won't say it! What are you laughing about? I suppose you'll say you knew it all before!"

She nodded. "I was at school with them both, you know, and of all the superficial, self-centered little pigs—I'm not afraid to say it—Laurette was the prize one! You'd only have thought I was catty if I'd told you before. But Peggy—you can't beat her, George, for an all-round nice girl! Homey, sweet and smart as lightning, too, and she was always capturing prizes. No wonder she talks and listens well! If I had a sister, I'd choose a girl just like Peggy Bancroft. She's the 'sweet P' all right! Please make a note of that, George."

"What d'you know about that?" George's sheepish smile did not match his indignant growl. "Well, anyhow, I promised Beth I'll look in tomorrow night, and I might as well take along some more chocolates for Laurette, and—"

"Sweet peas for the sweet P," supplemented Alice, with a mischievous laugh.—C. R. S., in the New York Press.

TOO SMART FOR HIM.

The crook had just been arrested. In the scuffle he had lost his hat. "Say, officer, lemme get me hat, will you?"

"Now ain't you smart? If you wint after your hat you'd not come back. No, sir! You wait here. I'll go after the hat."—Life.

NO HOPE FOR HIM.

The young woman store detective when proposed to was silent.

"Then you cannot be the sunshine of my life," said the young man in disappointed tones.

"How can I?" she answered. "I am a professional shadow."—Boston Evening Transcript.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

It is not generally realized that the game of war is hedged round by as many restrictions as a boxing contest under Queensberry rules. These regulations which are under the sanction of all the civilized countries of the world, are designed to insure fair play for the combatants.

All chaplains, doctors and nurses are protected in every possible way, and are not to be taken prisoners or in any way injured.

Any soldier robbing or mutilating an enemy is liable to be shot without trial; and death is the penalty for wounding or killing a disabled man.

The bodies of the enemy are to be carefully searched before burial and any articles found on them which might lead to their identification are to be sent to the proper quarters.

Explosive bullets must not be used, and quarter must be given to the enemy whether he asks for it or not. In an attack on the enemy there must be no concealment of the distinctive signs of the regiments, and the use of poisons for polluting the drinking water is forbidden.

The Deepest Ocean.

(New York Press.)
The greatest known ocean depth is approximately the same as the greatest land height, but average depth of the ocean bed is about 12,000 feet as against the average land height above sea level of 2,300 feet.

The following are the greatest depths and areas of the five oceans:

Ocean	Depth Ft.	Greatest Area Sq. Mile.
Pacific	31,000	71,000,000
Atlantic	27,366	34,000,000
Antarctic	25,200	7,500,000
Indian	18,582	28,000,000
Arctic	9,000	4,000,000

The maximum depth of the Pacific Ocean is near the island of Mindanao, while in the Atlantic a spot off the coast of Porto Rico holds the record.

The oceans, including the inland seas, connected with them, cover about 114,500,000 square miles, or 73.39 per cent of the total surface of the earth and the volume of water estimated to be contained in them is 321,800,000 cubic miles.

Bob Taylor Lives,

In the two bright and beautiful books just issued, "Lectures and Best Literary Productions," and "Life and Career" of Senator Robert Love Taylor, handsome'y illustrated, you cannot hear again his voice or see the humorous curl of his lips, that convulsed a continent with laughter, hut, within the covers of these volumes, are the pictures woven of his wondrous words, and, laughing through their sunny pages are all of the inimitable stories which he told to the multitudes. In "Life and Career," pens of genius have traced his romantic life from its morning in "Happy Valley," through his young and rosy dreams through stress and storm, through cheering throngs, and on into the waiting shadows, loved and laurel crowned.

We expect to sell millions of these books. First edition going fast.

Lake Covers Forest.

The trees which occupy the area of 164 square miles that was selected for the site of Gatun lake at Panama were left standing, because it would have required an expenditure of about $2,000,000 to clear the large space. As a tree smother when the roots are covered with water for some time, thousands of the trees in the lake are already beginning to die, and it is probable that all of them will have decayed and floated down stream within a few years.

Who May Vote in the Primary.

W. S. Kaltenbocher, in the Louisville Times, says that many of the newspapers of the state are misinforming their readers as to who are entitled to vote in the next August primary. Some of them are saying that any person not twenty-one years old on the day of the primary, but who will have reached that age on or before the November election, is entitled to vote in the primary. By the old law, under which the Democratic State Committee fixed the qualifications of voters, the voter who was a minor at the primary, but twenty-one years old at the following general election, was allowed to vote in the primary. But under the new law Mr. Kaltenbocher calls attention to the fact that minors at the primary election are not entitled to vote. He says that while the same qualifications for voters apply at the primary as at the regular election, viz: "Male citizens twenty-one years of age, residence in state one year, in county six months, in precinct sixty days, neither convict, idiot or lunatic," the primary law expressly stipulates that "THE QUALIFICATION SHALL BE DETERMINED AS OF THE DATE OF THE PRIMARY," which this year will be August 2. Therefore, unless a voter will have the age and residence qualifications on August 2 he will not be entitled to vote in the primary. While a voter may be duly qualified to exercise his right in the November election this year, it does not give him the right to vote in the primary unless he has all the qualifications then.

The political news is sure to be of the most absorbing interest.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that is to be found in a first class daily.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Hopkinsville Kentuckian together for one year for $2.65.

BURIAL PLACE OF COLUMBUS

Santo Domingans Declare Great Discoverer's Ashes Lie in Their Country.

Santo Domingo expects that it will get a share in the great international commerce that will move through the Panama canal, writes William Joseph Showalter in the National Magazine. Not only will it afford a great highway for its exports and imports, but it will also constitute an important port of call for many kinds of ships.

Here one may see the house of Columbus, and if the conclusions of the priests of Santo Domingo are to be believed, his brother and his son were interred in the cathedral. In after years it was decided to remove the ashes of the discoverer to Havana.

When the Spaniards were fighting in the Spanish-American war they took the bones at Havana back to Spain and interred them there. It is claimed that it has since been demonstrated that those are the bones of his brother.

The Santo Domingans afterwards opened up a leaden casket and in it found the inscription, "Cristobal Colon, first admiral." Other evidence substantiates the claim and was strong enough to convince Secretary Knox that the Dominicans actually possess the real bones of Columbus.

THROWN AT HIM

"Fruit is considered healthful." "When I was on the stage I occasionally received some that had a very bad effect upon me."

QUESTION OF CHARACTER.

The best farmers in the United States started with less than $1,000—in most cases with less than $20. They were the Irish and German immigrants who went straight from the ship to work as hired men on farms. One of the $15 or $20 a month they got in addition to their board they saved enough to buy a few acres of land. Is the city man of the present generation too weak in fiber, too infirm of purpose, too lacking in endurance and initiative for this process?—Collier's Weekly.

WORM TURNS.

Mrs. Gnaggs—You miserable worm! Out of my way! You're always kicking because I want to get out somewhere!
Mr. Gnaggs—Now look here—Mrs. Gnaggs—Not a word from you, now! Come here and hook up my dress!
Mr. Gnaggs—Now, look here, Jennie, if you mean to imply I'm a hookworm I'm damned if I stand it.—St. Louis Republic.

LAST RETORT.

"Pa, what is meant by an 'emergency diet'?"
"That depends on where you are, my son. In the polar regions dog meat is an emergency diet. In the average town it's pork and beans."

IN ART CIRCLES.

Painter—Don't you think he has the look of an artist?
Dauber—Why, yes, he has a hungry look, now I come to think of it.

ITS STATUS.

"I am astonished to find such rude, persistent lawyers here."
"Why especially here?"
"Because it is a civil court."

HER METHOD.

"So his new wife storms a great deal."
"Yes; that is the way she manages to reign in the family."

EASILY CLASSED.

"What do you think, girls? Miss Oldgirl is engaged."
"Then it must be to some antique bargain fiend."

ANOTHER WORRY FOR MARIA

Farmer's Wife Objected to Cuckoo Clock Because She Had All the Birds She Could Feed.

That there is a limit to the cares and responsibilities of the housewife was demonstrated by a little story told in an after-dinner speech by Governor Fletcher of Vermont.

"A middle-aged couple from one of the back counties visited Montpelier one day," said the governor, "and while rambling down the main street looking at the sights their attention was attracted by a cuckoo clock in the show window of a jewelry store.

"The clock was striking at the time, and as the cuckoo came out and chirped the hour the rural couple looked on with mingled admiration and wonder.

"Well, I declare!" exclaimed the farmer's wife as the cuckoo concluded his announcement and retired within the clock, "never in all my life did I see anything like that!"

"Ner me, neether, Maria," responded Ezekiah, still retaining his look of astonishment, "an sence we need a new clock at home, what do ye say if we buy that one?"

"We won't do anything of the kind, Ezekiah!" was the emphatic declaration of Maria. "Don't ye s'pose I've got enough chickens, an' ducks an' geese, an' turkeys, an' other things to look after now without feedin' a pesky bird?"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Voices of the Night.

"Go to sleep again, Maria. That wasn't a gun—nothing but an auto tire busted!"

"John, did you remember to order that ton of coal today? I knew you'd forgotten it! And there isn't more than a bucketful left in the—I won't hush!"

"If the next car that comes along doesn't stop, by George, I'll smash a window."

"Duckie, how about going skating tomorrow even— Say, you, there Butinski, get off the line!"

"Gosh! It's a motorcycle! I was dreaming there was an earthquake and the house was falling down!"

"It's too bad, Henry, but you'll have to walk a while with the baby again."

"Me-a-ow! Me-a-ow! Spft! Spft!"

A LOOK BEYOND.

He—So you'll be mine! I never dreamed there was such happiness in store for me.

She—Oh, there's no happiness in store for you, I assure you!

Fine Distinctions.

"Why don't the daughters of these millionaires speak to each other?"

"Because they are in different classes."
"What do you mean?"
"One's father made his money in refined sugar and the other only in crude oil."

Drifted Apart.

"Yes; the engagement is off."

"What came between your two loving hearts?"

"I hardly know. I told her I was unworthy of her, and she agreed with me so heartily on that point that our courtship kind of languished after that."

A Woman's Question.

Paying Teller—I cannot cash this check, madam.

She—Why not?

Paying Teller—There isn't enough money here to meet it.

She—Then can't you meet it half way?

Some Weight.

"Cholly complained of having something on his mind."

"I know what it is. I saw him strike his head against a lot of cobwebs in the corner."

Woman's Greatest Trouble.

Big Sandy, Tenn.—Mrs. Lucy Cantrell, of this place, says: "Every two weeks I had to go to bed and stay there several days. I suffered untold misery. Nothing seemed to help me, until I tried Cardui, the woman's tonic. Although I had been afflicted with womanly weakness for seven years, Cardui helped me more than anything else ever did. It is surely the best tonic for women on earth." Weakness is woman's greatest trouble. Cardui is woman's greatest medicine, because it overcomes that weakness and brings back strength. In the past 50 years, Cardui helped over a million women. Try it for your troubles, today. Advertisement.

MADE WITH RHUBARB

SUGGESTION THAT WILL IM-PROVE PIES AND TARTS.

Use No Water in the Preparation of the Plant—Cobbler a Special Lunchson Dish That Has Few Superiors.

Rhubarb is one of the spring's blessings. Its list of health-giving possibilities is almost endless, and its advocates as the giver of beauty are numbered by scores.

Pies and tarts of rhubarb are old favorites. There is a good deal of difficulty experienced in making them because of the fact that rhubarb is generally so juicy that it soaks the under-crust. To lessen the amount of juice do not use any water in the preparation of the rhubarb. Cut the stalks, after they are washed, dried and skinned, in half-inch lengths, cover them with sugar and put them in the crust.
There can be two crusts, or the top of the pie can be barred with pastry.

When making rhubarb tarts prepare the rhubarb with the crusts separately.
Bake crisp crusts in muffin rings.
Wash, dry and skin rhubarb stalks, cut them into pieces and stew them slowly until perfectly tender with a very little water. Add sugar when they are taken from the stove, while they are still hot. Chill the rhubarb and at the last minute put it into the crusts.
Rhubarb cobbler, made without an under crust, of course, is a delicious luncheon dish for the devotee of rhubarb.
To make it prepare a batter of a cupful of sour milk, a half teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little cold water added to the milk, a tablespoonful of butter and enough flour to make a medium batter. Put rhubarb, cut in short lengths, in a pudding dish and sugar it generously. Then pour over it the batter. Bake it in a moderate oven. Serve it hot with boiled custard or sugar and cream.

Rhubarb pudding, which is a favorite with children, is made on the order of apple brown betty. To make it cut the rhubarb in pieces, put a layer of it in a pudding dish, cover it with sugar and then put a layer of bread and butter. Alternate layers of fruit and bread until the dish is done.
Cover it and bake it half an hour, remove the cover and bake ten minutes longer. Serve with a hot sauce of any desired flavor.

SHOULD BE WORTH TRYING

What is Known as Turkish Salad is Composed of a Vast Number of Ingredients.

Two tablespoons gelatin, three large cucumbers, one teaspoon onion juice, one cup boiling water, dash red pepper, one-half teaspoon salt, few sliced tomatoes, crisp lettuce leaves, one tablespoon vinegar, red mayonnaise and one cup cold water. Peel and slice the cucumbers, place in a saucepan with the cold water, bring to a boiling point and cook slowly until soft. Dissolve the gelatin with the boiling water, add onion juice, vinegar, seasonings and cucumbers.
Strain and add a few drops green coloring pressed from boiled spinach leaves; then pour into a wet ring mold and chill thoroughly. When stiff, remove from the mold, fill the center with red mayonnaise and garnish with sliced cucumbers, tomatoes and lettuce leaves. The red mayonnaise is made by cooking a can of tomatoes; strain and cook the juice again until it is reduced to two tablespoons. When cold, add to the regular mayonnaise until the desired tint is obtained.

Cleaning a Chenille Tablecloth.
Almost the only safe means of cleaning a chenille tablecloth will be by dry-cleaning it. Use a quart of bran or cornmeal, mixed with a handful of salt. Heat it in the oven without scorching it, then rub it well into all parts of the cloth just as with suds.
Finally roll up with the meal scattered thickly over all parts and put into a closed box to stand for a day or two, then repeat the process and the second time should show a decided improvement effected in the cloth. For any stains or obstinate soil marks sponge with a little alcohol or benzine. This will greatly improve the cloth, though it may not make it like new.

Red Cabbage and Celery Salad.
Have a fine and firm red cabbage, trim off all outside leaves, cut the inner portion into quarters and remove the stalks. Cut the rest into fine shreds and add to it, in the salad bowl, a head of celery cut into inch pieces.

Make a dressing by beating 1 egg, stirring into it gradually a tablespoon of salad oil, a tablespoon of red wine vinegar, a pinch of sugar and mustard, salt and pepper. Pour over the cabbage and celery, garnish with sliced gherkins and capers. A grating of cheese adds to this.

Appetizing Side Dish.

One cream cheese, a gill of pure cream, a small jar of bar le duo jelly and a little paprika may be made into a charming looking little "side" appetizer for a chafing dish party. First the cheese and cream are beaten to a froth to form a puffy cake almost filling a soup dish, then a hole is dug in its center, is filled with bar le duo and finally the entire surface is sprinkled with paprika. To write about it takes longer than to make this side dish, but it lives long in the memory of those who have eaten of it.

Nearly Smothered.

Chandler, N. C.—Mrs. Augusta Lomax, of this place, writes: "I had smothering spells every day, so bad I expected death at any time.
I could not sit up in bed. I suffered from womanly troubles. My nerves were unstrung. I had almost given up all hope of ever being better. I tried Cardui, and it did me more good than anything I had ever taken.
I am better now than I ever expected to be." Thousands of ladies have written similar letters, telling of the merits of Cardui. It relieved their headache and misery, just as it will relieve yours, if you will let Dr. T. C.
Cardui.

NEEDS SOME PLANNING

BUT TO THOSE FOND OF SHAD, COOKING IS WORTH WHILE.

Properly Prepared, it May Be Made to Serve Several Meals—Planked Probably Is the Best of All Ways.

This is the season for shad. If a popular vote were taken as to which is our most delicious fish, probably shad would be the winner.

But shad is not only a delicious fish, it is also a very economical one.

It does not require much planning to serve shad. It can be made to serve several meals. At the same time satisfy the most critical appetite. This is made possible by first having the shad split, using one-half for baking, the other half (the bone side) for broiling. The roe can be served at still another meal in any one of a number of ways.
The famous way of cooking a shad is planking it, a method that has been handed down to us by fishermen, who utilized driftwood instead of a pan.
They baked the fish on the wood, and the fumes of the cedar or hickory flavored the fish so deliciously that this makeshift custom has been adopted by epicures all over the world.

Planked Fish.—Planked fish should be baked on a board of cedar, hickory, oak or ash. Place the board in the oven until very hot. Now paint the board with butter or olive oil, place shad on it, season with salt and pepper. If fish has been split place skin side downward on board, brush with butter or olive oil, and dust with salt and pepper. Bake often and bake until golden brown. This takes from 20 to 30 minutes, according to thickness of fish. Serve with parsley, lemon, sliced pickles or maitre d'hotel butter.

Maitre d'Hotel Butter.—This is made by working one-fourth cup butter till creamy, then add one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon chopped parsley, then one tablespoon lemon juice and one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. This may be served hot or cold as desired.

Baked Shad.—Remove scales and insides, wash both inside and outside, and wipe dry with a cloth. Rub both sides with salt and pepper. Grease the bottom of a roasting pan with butter or olive oil. This prevents the shad from sticking. Paint the top of fish with olive oil or pieces of butter.
Place in a hot oven for ten minutes.

Now take pan out of oven for a minute and cover the fish with the following mixture: Three-quarters of a can of tomatoes, one green pepper and two onions chopped fine, one tablespoon of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, one-half teaspoon of pepper.
Bake for 25 minutes, basting occasionally. Serve on a platter garnished with parsley or water cress.

Broiled Shad.—Remove scales, split and wash. Wipe fish dry. Grease the broiler well with oil or butter, place shad with the skin side downward on broiler. Now have a good hot fire, hold shad near the flame so as to sear over the outer surface at first, in order to keep the juices in, then move it a little farther from the flame, and cook for twenty minutes.
Melt three teaspoons of butter, add one teaspoon of salt, one-half teaspoon of pepper, mix. Place shad on hot platter and pour sauce over it.

Veal and Oyster Pie.

Cut one pound of neck veal into small pieces, put them into a saucepan covered with water and stew them for an hour. Cut two ounces of pork into bits and put them in with the veal and add one chopped onion, one tablespoonful of thickening, a teaspoonful of milk and salt and pepper to taste.
Cook the mixture for twenty minutes longer, then turn into a shallow dish, put a breakfast cupful of oysters over the top, dredge in some pepper, salt and flour and cover the pie with a common pie crust. Bake for about half an hour and serve either hot or cold.

Ginger Snaps.

To make delicious ginger snaps, boil together a cupful of shortening, half a cupful of sugar and a pint of molasses, and then a teaspoonful of cinnamon and a teaspoonful of ginger. Dissolve two teaspoonfuls of soda in a tablespoonful of vinegar and add it to the boiled mixture. Stir in three or four cupfuls of flour, enough to make a fairly stiff mixture. Put in a good place over night. Sprinkle the board with granulated sugar instead of flour when rolling out the snaps.

Potato Soup.

Six potatoes cooked. Mash while hot, add 1 pint milk, onion to taste, salt and pepper, tablespoon of butter.
Cook onion in milk, to get flavor;
pour this on to potato, add butter, salt and pepper. Strain when ready to serve. Take common crackers, halve them, butter and brown in oven, or cut bread in small cubes and brown in oven to serve with meat.

Dishwashing Help.

Any man or woman who is obliged to wash dishes will find that a dish cloth made of a piece of woolen goods is the greatest help obtainable. Take a piece of worn-out woolen goods—underwear is quite suitable. One can clean the dishes in half the time with less effort, and with one rinse in soapsuds have a clean dishcloth each time.
